REVOLT IN AUTOMOBILE CLUB.

BAILEY-DOUGHTY BILL BRINGS MATTERS TO A CRISIS.

cial Meeting Called to Repudiate Indursement of Measure by President Shattuck and the Law Committee -Trouble Brewing in Jersey. Too.

itomobile legislation at Albany is the lets in this city and State which may result a some sensational changes in the present tablished order of things. It was foreadowed, and now is no longer to be consealed, that there is downright rebellion in the Automobile Club of America, which has adquarters at 753 Fifth avenue in this ity. This developed yesterday, following action of six clubs up the State which on Saturday denounced the attitude of the Automobile Club of America in relation the Bailey-Doughty bill, now pending fore the Governor.

special meeting of the members of A. C. A. has been called for next Saturday night by a petition of fifteen active abers, as provided for by the constitution and by-laws, and it is no secret that the purpose of the meeting is to repudiate action of President A. R. Shattuck and of the law committee with regard to the bill, which had their approval.

Gov. Odell has named Wednesday, 6. as a day for a hearing on the bill, and the rebellious members will seek to have the club execute an about-face by urging that the bill be vetoed.

parade decided upon by the club to be held next Friday has been indefinitely postponed. Letters were sent to the memers of the committee on runs and tours, which had charge of the parade arrangements, telling them to call it off. No reason would be given for this, and it was left to the committee to conjecture that it was in line with the action taken by the governors last Friday night when they decided to uphold the president and law committee in approving the Bailey bill The parade, it was conceived, would be a demonstration in opposition to the bill. Learning of this postponement the Autoile Trade Association will probably hold a parade on May 5, the day before that set for the hearing by the Governor. In line with all this, though not directly connected with the legislation developments, s the news that a move is on foot to reorganfize the Automobile Club of New Jersey or fize the Automobile Club of New Jersey or form a new rival body, because that club, it is alleged, is too much dominated by the A. C. A. of this city.

As the Automobile Club of America is the one recognized by the organizations of France, Germany, and England as the representative body of this country, the storm of antagonism from the outside and the rupture of harmony within may have results of far-reaching character.

The first outward sign of the storm was the following announcement that was of the Automobile Trade Association of Automobile Manufacturers and one of the three who will represent the Automobile Club of America in the international cup race, talked freely yesterday, saying:

"Every one was hot when I arrived on Sunday night. All were vehement in denouncing the one-man club, saying that it was dominated entirely by Shattuck and was not representative, and that they did not want to belong to a club that is not representative, and all that A. L. Riker, speaking to Jefferson Seligman, said that it the club did not protect automobilists he would resign."

It was suggested to Mr. Owen that the club is in a peculiar predicament, because in order to take any action now against the Doughty-Balley bill it would have to repudiate the action of its president and law committee, who indorsed it in the name of the club. Mr Owen replied

"That is just what should be done. Let the action be repudiated, or the club is lost. It is high time the members of the Automobile Club of America had some say the management. This is not the first time that there has been cause for revolt by any means, but now it comes because of comething that hits us all.

"If we have a full meeting on Saturday night I don't doubt but what there will be a motion carried with one voice to pass a vote of censure on the president and the law committee. This is a crisis, and the time for politeness has passed. Mr. Shattuck, in going to Europe on Wednesday, is retiring under fire. If the club does not reverse its position with regard to this bill, it will lose all its prestige. If the club does not reverse its position with regard to this bill, it will lose all its prestige. If the club does not ensure on the president and the law committee had no right to go to Albany and asy they represented the sentiment was the trading and compromising with the farmer legislators who form societies, to get time traps on Long Island was all carried on by the president, and we were not told what concessions and changes were being made."

Mr. Owen's h

shows only will persone the Authority Agricus of the control of th

stitutionality of all laws requiring a tag and license to use the highways, and the constitutionality of revoking a man's right to use the highway with an automobile, would soon be tested in the courts.

Regarding the proposed parade Scoretary Butler of the club said lest night that, although it had been postponed, there was talk of going ahead with it.

A call for a meeting to reorganize the New Jersey club has been issued for Thursday night in Newark, by R. C. Jeukinson, one of the club members and formerly president of the Automobile Board of Trade over there.

The seventh of the Automobile Boar of there.

Inasmuch as it is the trade element taking the initiative in the trouble making, the outcome may be the formation of factions and a divorcing of the trade element from the purely social factors. Some of the members in the club not identified with the industry have committed themselves to the velws of the rebel element, but they may yet take sides with the administration against the trade faction. The trade element argues that it has largely supported the club and that its money paid in at contests has filled the treasury coffers, while the society members consider that they have been instrumental in building up the industry.

the society memoers countries have been instrumental in building up the industry.

The attitude of the other clubs in the State toward the one in this city, which is styled the Automobile Club of America, in plainly shown by the resolutions adopted on Saturday. The A. C. A. did not get an invitation to the convention to form a State association. The resolutions of the new State league of six clubs were:

Whereas, it appears that the passage of this bill was facilitated by the personal indorsement of the bill by the president of the Automobile Club of America at Albamy, which indorsement was subsequently ratified by a meeting of the governors of the club, be it Resolved. That it is our unanimous opinion that the bill is harmful and would work unteld injury to the auto industry without effecting the reforms it aims to bring shout, that we deny and protest against the assumption implied in the measure, namely, that all automobilists are predisposed to break the law, and as such are subjected to quesi-oriminal legislation, and that we protest against the assumption of the A. C. A. in accepting the bill in the name of the automobilists of the State as unwarranted.

WOMEN TO JUDGE DOGS. Arrangements for the Spring Show of Ladies' Kennel Association.

At the spring show of the Ladies' Kennel Association, to be held on the grounds of the president, Mrs. James L. Kernochan, at Association, to be held on the grounds of the president, Mrs. James L. Kernochan, at Hempstead, on May 29 and 30, womed have been selected to judge in three of the divisions. This is something new in this country, and if the departure meets with the success expected, it will again be followed at the fall show of the association in Madison Square Garden. The dogs will be benched under canvas, and the entire affair will be somewhat like a garden party. The women who will judge are all well known as exhibitors. Mrs. W. W. Hadley, who was prominent as Miss Grace Darling as an exhibitor at the shows before her marriage, will judge the toy dogs; Mrs. R. F. Mayhew the fox terriers and Mrs. D. T. Pulsifer the French bulldogs. The other judges will be:

Mastiffs, bloodhounds, Great Danes, Russian wolfhounds, greybounds, foxhounds and the miscellaneous class, James Watson; pointers, C. P. Wilcox; sporting spaniels, W. T. Payne; coilles, M. M. Palmer; bull terriers, J. A. Madan; Irish terriers, Singleton Van Schalek; beagles, T. Shalleross; black and tans, Dr. H. T. Foote; whippets, J. A. Boutelic; all other classes, James Mortimer.

STURGIS SPEAKS FOR HIMSELF.

Under His Administration.

Both Democratic and Republican officials were guests and speakers at the ninth annual dinner of the Patriotic Republican Club of the Twenty-eighth Assembly district held last night in the Lexington Avenue Opera House. President Benjamin Oppenheimer was toastmaster.

President Fornes of the Board of Aldermen anoke for the city administration.

President Fornes of the Board of Aldermen spoke for the city administration. He said that Mayor Low was deeply solictious as to the work of every department. But the Mayor could not accomplish everything everybody desired in two or three months, or even two or three years.

Fire Commissioner Sturgis said that his constant thought was of the welfare of the uniformed men. When he came into office he found that a lot of men entitled to promotion had been turned down through a misuse of civil service lists. His first forty or fifty promotions, he said, had been of men who had been thus deprived of their rights.

"When the men understood," he said, "that promotions were to be for good work at fires and not at primaries, the results showed in reduced fire losses. Last year the total loss was $1,800,000 lower than in any year since 1897."

Other speakers were Justices Greenbaum and Mayer, Commissioner Homer Folks, Collector Treat, Port Warden Gunner and ex-Superintendent of Elections McCuilagh.

MAYOR OPENS CHURCH FAIR.

MAYOR OPENS CHURCH FAIR. One of His Rules Broken for the Parish of Which 60th's Chaplain Is Paster. Almost every Catholic society in New York was represented in the Grand Central Palace last night at the opening of the two-weeks bazaar for the benefit of St. Malachy's parish, of which Father William J. B. Daly, Chaplain of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, is the pastor. The fair was opened by Mayor Low, who was escorted to the platform by officers of the Sixty-ninth and introduced by Father Daly.

There are several new features at the fair. An Irish jaunting cart drawn by ponies races in a course which circles the hall. Mrs. Roosevelt has contributed a hand-painted satin table screen, showing portraits of the wives of four of the rulers of the world and small pictures of their castles. There were two work baskets made of Cuban sombreros by Miss Alice Roosevelt. There is a jewel case from Kermit Roosevelt and a portrait of the President from himself.

Mayor Low visited each table, invested the first money spent at the bazaar and contributed something to each booth. Although he declared this to be his first experience at a church fair and in the first part of the evening said it would probably be his last, he took this back later. J. B. Cup Boat Being Fitted for Tuning-Up Spins

BRISTOL, B. I., April 27 .- Two of the cup

Cup Beat Being Fitted fer Tuming-Up Spins

New Salls for Columbia.

Bristol, R. I., April 27.—Two of the cup boats, the Reliance, a boat yet to try issues with others of her class, and the Columbia, twice a winner of the America's Cup, were in Bristol Harbor to-day, being fitted for the tuning-up spins, which are to take place later in the lower bay and outside of Newport. The new boat was anchored in mid-stream with the bowsprit and topmast gear prepared for refitting, and the Columbia lay in the Herreshoff slip beside the wharf.

The sailmakers were doing some refitting on the Reliance's mainsail that was used in the trials of Saturday and yesterday. The machinists were completing some fittings about the capetan and winches on the forward deck. The Reliance is to have a physician in case any one of the crew, officers or guests on board is taken ill. The physician is Dr. Thomas Manahaan of Boeton. Dr. Manahaan went on board the tenderSunbeam this morning with his baggage. Mr. Iselin was actively planning about the future movements of the new boat to-day and had a long talk with Sailmaker Hathaway relative to the sails. Mr. Iselin said that he was much pleased with the sailing of the Reliance yesterday and that he thought the new graft did finely in a moderate wind. He said the Reliance would not go out today because there was some work to be done on board. He was asked about the headquarters of the boat for the next week or so, and replied that as soon as the fitting now going on was accomplished the Reliance would be taken out under sail again; in fact, it was intended to work her under canvas and that she would come back to Bristol at the end of each trial spin, making that place her headquarters for a while.

Inquiry was made of Mr. Iselin if the boat would so cut to-morrow, and he replied that if the work on hand was finished he did not seen any reason why she could not, and that it was possible that she would be tried to-morrow morning.

The Columbia is to have a complete new set of sails and will be in B

No god or idol of the craft is sacred to the Fakirs, and Sargent's portrait of William M. Chase is as popular a butt as anything in the downstairs exhibition. Real eyeglasses bestride Chase's nose in the upstairs exhibition, and a tape as big as Chase's own hangs from them. The Fakirs have found a fake "strenuous Teddy," as they label him, in the infant Wiles shows downstairs, and they have made him strenuous by the bestowal of a sword.

No one who has gone to worship and remained to wonder before the Thayer, in its place of honor in the Vanderbilt Gallery, should miss the Fakirs' fine parody, the "Temptation of St. Louis," wherein Stevenson strives to take the lady off his tombstone. The sea changes which Curran's marvellous submarine creatures have undergone at the Fakirs' hands are various, and even the artist, if he looks upon them, must see a light, for a candle is placed behind one in the form of a transparency.

The auction of the fakes will take place on Thursday evening. On the following evening will be held the customary fancydress ball. The proceeds of the Fakirs' exhibition go to the establishment of scholarships in the Art Students' League, to which the Fakirs belong.

NEW BARREL MURDER EVIDENCE.

before Coroner Scholer yesterday, but owing to the failure of eight out of the sixteen talesmen summoned for jury duty to appear in court, was postponed until Friday next. Coroner Scholer said that he couldn't understand the failure of the talesmen to appear unless it was because they were afraid of the Mafia.

After the adjournment of the inquest there was a dispute about reducing the bail of the men who are held as witnesses. Their lawyer wanted them released on $100 bail each. Coroner Scholer decided not to reduce the bail, which in some of the cases is as high as $5,000.

The Coroner's court was crowded with Italians, most of them friends of the prisoner, Petto, who is now charged with the murder of Madonia, but there was no demonstration. In asking for an adjournment of the inquest until Friday, Assistant District Attorney Garvan announced that he had discovered some new and important evidence. He declined to say what this evidence is.

SAYS ELLIS ISN'T INSANE.

Who Threatened Col. Price. Mrs. William B. Ellis, whose husband, formerly a wealthy Carolina tobacco merchant, was arrested and committed to Bellevue Hospital as insane on April 7, writes to THE SUN to say she is positive that her husband was never insane and that the statement attributed to her in some newspapers—not THE SUN—that he had once threatened her life is untrue. Mrs. Ellis says that her husband was arrested and committed without her knowledge while she was in the South attending her invalid mother.

Ellis was arrested for writing threatening letters to Col. Frank H. Fries, formerly president of the Roanoke and Southern Railroad Company. In one he threatened to shoot Fries on sight. The men had once had business troubles, and Dr., Dent of the Manhattan State Hospital pronounced Fries insane. He was afterward removed to a private sanitarium. to Bellevue Hospital as insane on April 7,
